DETAILED ACTION

1. This office action is in response the applicants' amendment received on March 21, 2006.
2. Claims 1-39 are presented for examination.
3. The applicants have amended claims 1, 15, 22, 29-37, and 39.
4. Applicants' arguments with respect to claims 1-39 have been fully considered but they are not deemed to be persuasive.

Response to Arguments

5. a. The applicants' arguments recite the following:

Reeves Does Not Compare Information on Primary Computer System

With Information On Secondary Computer System

- a1. The examiner respectfully disagrees with the applicants' arguments. The applicants are arguing claims 1, 15, 22, 29, and 38 as currently amended. Specifically, the applicants' arguments with regards to independent claims 1, 15, 22, 29, and 38, consist of "comparing identity information on the primary computer system with identity information on the secondary computer system". It is the opinion of the examiner that Reeves does teach the newly added claim limitation.

Reeves teaches that the personal information manager having a format to which the conversion tool converts the data and the contact information from pager element 102 can be uploaded to pager element 120. Once the contact information is uploaded to pager element 120, than pager 120 executes a new operating system (col. 5, lines 44-67, col. 6, lines 1-21). The examiner believes that the above recited teaching of Reeves explains how data is transformed from an old state to a new state based on the conversion tool and the new operating system. This process appears to detail a comparison of the new identity of data from a primary computer to a secondary computer.

b. The applicants' arguments recite the following:

Reeves Does Not Teach Or Suggest Rules Synchronization

b1. The examiner respectfully disagrees with the applicants' arguments. Reeves does teach synchronization rules as mentioned in the limitations of claims 22-28, 38, and 39. Reeves teaches interactive pagers having an operating system that enables data synchronization with database files of personal information managers (col. 3, lines 55-60, col. 4, lines 54-67, col. 5, lines 1-4).

Thus, the remaining claims, dependent claims, are also addressed by the above remarks for comprising limitations based on limitations of the independent claims.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claim 4 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

7. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

8. Claims 1-3 and 5-39 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Reeves et al. (Pat. No. 6,748,402 B1 filed April 2, 2001, hereinafter Reeves).

9. Regarding Claims 1, 13-15, and 29, Reeves teaches a system and method for converting and loading interactive pager address books.

The method and associated system for converting and loading interactive pager address books as taught or suggested by Reeves includes:

a method of synchronizing identity information between a primary computer system and a disparate secondary computer system, wherein the primary computer system and the secondary computer system store identity information in different formats (col. 3, lines 18-23) and wherein the method comprises:

connecting the primary computer system (Fig. 1, 110, 112, 114, 116) and the secondary computer system (Fig. 1, 120) to provide communication capability between the primary computer system and the secondary computer system; determining new identity information exists on the primary computer system (col. 9, lines 4-11) and that a synchronization operation (col. 3, lines 55-60, col. 4, lines 54-67, col. 5, lines 1-4) should be performed by comparing identity information on the primary computer system with identity information on the secondary computer system (col. 5, lines 44-67, col. 6, lines 1-21); converting the new identity information into a different format (col. 8, lines 17-61), the different format associated with the secondary compute system (col. 8, lines 45-49, Fig. 4, steps 404, 406, 410,); and propagating the converted information to the secondary computer system (col. 8, lines 56-60, "uploading").

10. Regarding Claims 2 and 16, Reeves teaches an operating system (col. 4, lines 8-54).

11. Regarding Claim 3 and 17, Reeves teaches the secondary computer system has a representative database of identity information following receipt of the converted information, wherein the representative database is representative of a primary database of identity information stored on the primary computer system (col. 3, lines 10-49, col. 4, lines 10-67).

12. Regarding claim 4-11, 18, 19, 30-37, and 39, the limitations of these claims have been noted in the rejections above. They are therefore rejected as set forth above.

13. Regarding Claim 12, the limitations of this claim has been noted in the rejections above. In addition, Reeves teaches the mapping table means (col. 7, lines 28-39).

14. Regarding Claims 20-28, and 38, Reeves teaches connecting the primary computer system (Fig. 1, 110, 112, 114, 116) and the secondary computer system to provide communication capability between the primary computer system and the secondary computer system (Fig. 1, 120); determining new rule information exists and that a synchronization operation should be performed (col. 5, lines 28-44, col. 8, lines 33-61); and propagating the new rule information from one computer system to the other (col. 5, lines 28-44, col. 8, lines 33-61).

15. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
